Distance Learning (correspondence courses in astrology)

The name of the company, astrologycollege.com, might indicate that our courses are computer based. While computers can help considerably and are now part of everyday life for many, you do not need a computer to study our courses.

Based in the UK, astrologycollege.com was set up in 2002 as a company limited by guarantee (non-profit making). Its aim is to teach a high standard of astrology from beginners to advanced level for those who wish to learn astrology for fun, for self-development purposes or for professional training. The members of the company elect the directors who are responsible for day-to-day management.

astrologycollege.com aims to deliver courses which are thorough, exciting and stimulating. It aims to inspire students to become the astrologers of the future, secure in the knowledge that they have received the backing of a course which is not only well structured and realistic but is also first class in terms of the information it aims to deliver.

astrologycollege.com is a school approved by the Association of Professional Astrologers International - website: www.professionalastrologers.co.uk, and is a member of the Advisory Panel of Astrological Education (APAE) in the UK.

What is astrology?

Astrology looks at the cycles of the Sun, Moon, planets and stars in relation to human affairs. You can use astrology to understand yourself and others; to help make the most of your potential; to interpret birth charts for other people; to study astrological future trends and to gain a unique insight into global and political events.

Sun sign columns: Your introduction to astrology is, perhaps, the daily or monthly horoscope or star columns you read in newspapers or magazines, often referred to as Sun sign columns by astrologers. This is the entertainment side of astrology. These columns are the tip of the iceberg when it comes to astrology, which has many applications such as psychological, political, financial, and medical.

The birth or event chart: The birth chart, or event chart, is the first thing you are likely to come across when you begin your studies. This is a chart showing the positions of the Sun, Moon and planets at the date, time and place of a birth or of an event. It could also be a chart for a question asked or for a new venture, such as finding the right time to start a new business or to get married. The chart is an astronomically correct map from an earth-centred perspective.

Astrology as an aid to personal development: Many people study astrology for the sheer pleasure of doing so and for the potential astrology offers for self-development. astrologycollege.com acknowledges this, so there is no pressure to sit examinations. Through the use of symbols, astrology can give us an understanding of life by throwing light on psychological make up, behaviour patterns and potential. It can be an aid to understanding our relationships, whether personal or professional.

About our courses

Our courses cover modern western astrology which has its roots in the western tradition. There are several other branches of astrology such as Chinese astrology, Jyotish/Vedic astrology and Mayan astrology. We do not cover any of these as they are whole systems in themselves.

Apart from the Taster Course, which is a brief, stand-alone introduction to astrology, all our courses are modular. The Foundation Course consists of three modules designed to introduce the student to chart interpretation, chart calculation, and astrology's astronomical background. The Diploma Course consists of six modules. Modules 4, 5, 6, 7 and 9, introduce forecasting techniques, planetary cycles and synastry (the study of relationships), relevant astronomy, advanced interpretation techniques, psychology, and astro-consultancy. Module 8, Social and Mundane Astrology, is still in preparation and will be released in late spring/early summer 2010.

Case studies are given in all relevant modules with examples of written consultations using various techniques. Various astrologers have contributed to and written the course material: David Baker, Sandra Butler, Jean Elliott, Helene Haw, Babs Kirby, Lyn Lovell, Sue Martin, Jaki Miles Windmill, Teresa Moorey, Elizabeth Paige, Gerasime Patilas, Angela Radcliffe, Helene Schnitzer, Christine Tate, Sue Tompkins, Jeannine van Dun, Wanda Sellar and John Ware.

All students welcome: As long as admission requirements are fulfilled, anyone is welcome to study with astrologycollege.com, regardless of background, culture, differing abilities, interests and beliefs, origin, gender, sexual orientation, illness or disability. Every attempt is being made to help those who are partially sighted. Course material can currently be put into large print on request.

Do you need mathematical or scientific knowledge before studying with astrologycollege.com? No! As far as calculation and astronomy are concerned, there is no need for mathematical or scientific knowledge in either the Foundation or Diploma Course. Calculation only involves basic arithmetic (adding and subtracting) and the course material goes through each calculation step very thoroughly. Astronomy is made as fun and accessible as possible.

Learning at home with experienced tutors: With courses from astrologycollege.com you can study at home in your own time. A major advantage of distance learning is that you can take the time to go through the lessons and exercises thoroughly. The course material is comprehensive and essential books and reference materials have been kept to a minimum. You can write or type your exercises, send them by post to your tutor or, in most cases, send them by email.

The role of the tutor: astrologycollege.com provides a one to one teaching service. Your tutor will assess about three quarters of the exercises in each module and all the exercises in the Taster Course, Module 7 and Module 9. Some of the exercises in the other modules are self-assessed. Guidance notes will be sent to you upon completion of the self-assessed exercises and tutor-assessed exercises where relevant. You may contact your tutor at any time via post or email if you have queries about the course material or are having problems with the exercises, whether self-assessed or tutor-assessed. Your tutor is there to help guide you through the module you have enrolled on and assist you in your aims, whether you are learning astrology for personal development or whether you want to train as a professional.

Taster course

The Taster Course is designed for those who have no idea what astrology really is about, other than through daily/monthly horoscope/star sign columns. It is a simple, straightforward course working on your own chart for fun. This course will give a brief introduction to the birth chart. While there is no requirement to do the Taster Course, this is a good way to see if astrology is a subject that is really of interest to you or not.

Foundation Course

The Foundation Course is designed for those who want to begin studying astrology seriously and is divided into three modules:

Module 1 – Building Blocks: This covers an introduction to the various branches of astrology; it gives a comprehensive explanation of the birth chart including interpretation of the Zodiac signs, the Sun, Moon and planets, the angular distances between the Sun, Moon and planets (the aspects), and the areas of life which are determined by the time of birth (the houses).

Module 2 – Chart Interpretation, Ethics and Philosophy: This covers a comprehensive guide to chart interpretation and synthesis, basic ethics, explaining astrology to the public and an introduction to two forecasting techniques in common use (transits and secondary progressions).

Module 3 – Astronomy, an Introduction to the History of Astrology and Chart Calculation: This module is divided into two sections which can be bought separately or together.

Module 3a – Astronomy and an Introduction to the History of Astrology: This covers a brief history of astrology from ancient times to the present; the astronomy section includes the solar system (the Sun, Moon, planets and asteroids etc.) solar, lunar and planetary orbits including the Moon's phases and eclipses, the seasons (equinoxes and solstices), and measuring time and space.

Module 3b – Chart Calculation: Comprehensive instructions on chart calculation and drawing up a chart for anywhere in the world.

Lessons and Exercises: In each module, about two-thirds of the exercises are assessed by your tutor, while the remainder are self-assessed. Guidance Notes are sent after self-assessed exercises and after completing exercises on case studies.

Order of study: Once you have completed Module 1, Modules 2 and 3 (or 3a and 3b) may be studied in order of preference. Some students may prefer to study chart calculation first, whilst others may prefer to continue learning how to interpret a chart.

Diploma Course

The Diploma Course takes your astrological studies further. Whether you wish to carry on studying astrology for self-development purposes or in order to train as a professional astrologer, the Diploma Course aims to help you achieve these goals. Modules 4, 5, 6, 7 and 9 are for sale. The college aims to release Module 8 by late spring/early summer 2010. Guides to calculation, as well as interpretation, are included in the modules where relevant.

Module 4 – Forecasting and Planetary Cycles: The main aim is to help you to use one of the major methods of forecasting – transits – effectively, and to help you to grasp the concepts of planetary orbits and cycles in interpretation. Also included are some ancient and modern interpretation techniques.

Module 5 – Forecasting and Life Cycles: The aim is to help you make use, effectively, of two other forms of forecasting in common use (secondary progressions and solar arc directions). It also covers transits and secondary progressions based on age, and it introduces you to reflecting on your work with clients and to making an astrological journal.

Module 6 – Synastry - The Study of Relationships: This module introduces you to the various techniques used to study personal and professional relationships.

Module 7 – Astronomy and Advanced Interpretation Techniques: The astronomy section includes more information on the cycles of the Sun and Moon, e.g. eclipse cycles; more astronomy relating to the birth or event chart (in particular house systems); the two Zodiacs in use by astrologers; two astronomy laws (Bode's Law and Kepler's Law); an introduction to the constellations and stars; information on calendars past and present, and an introduction to the universe as seen by astronomers.

The section on advanced interpretation techniques includes using the chart for the birthday (solar returns) and for the monthly Moon 'birthday' (lunar returns); and the chart for the time of a consultation. It also includes two advanced interpretation techniques which can be used to gain further information on temperament and behaviour (harmonics and midpoints).

Module 9 – Psychology and Astro-Consultancy

This module covers an introduction to therapeutic psychology concentrating on humanistic models; becoming a professional astrologer; Code of Ethics; the practicalities of running a business.

Students are advised to take a short course in counselling or listening skills with another institution as it is not possible to teach these skills adequately using distance learning methods.

Lessons and Exercises: In Modules 4, 5 and 6, about two thirds of the exercises are assessed by your tutor, the remainder being self-assessed. Guidance notes are always sent after self-assessed exercises and after some of the tutor assessed exercises. All the exercises in Modules 7 and 9 are marked and assessed by your tutor.

Future Diploma Course Developments

Module 7 – The history of astrology: At some point we hope to introduce the history of astrology into this module.

Live client work: The college is developing a way of helping students to gain experience of working directly with clients.

Module 8 – Social and Mundane Astrology

Mundane astrology relates to global affairs such as politics, weather, climate and environment. This module will include interpreting the planets in social and mundane astrology; planetary cycles and the generations; the astrology of countries and organisations; electional astrology – finding the right time and date for an event or a beginning; converting birth or event charts onto a world map or onto a map of a local area (known as astrogeography and local space). The aim is to release Module 8 in the summer of 2010.

Examinations and Training as a professional astrologer

Some students will wish to train as professional astrologers and the courses are designed for this purpose too. The tutor team has many years of experience in giving such training and astrologycollege.com runs both Certificate and Diploma examinations during the autumn and early winter each year for both internal and external candidates. For further information, please ask for copies of the 'Examination Regulations and Syllabus' and for 'The Mock Examinations, Certificate and Diploma' from the Examinations Secretary. Please email exams@astrologycollege.com for information and application forms, or see address details at the end of this prospectus.

astrologycollege.com is a school approved by the Association of Professional Astrologers International (APAI). Diploma holders are entitled to become members of the APAI. Website address is www.professionalastrologers.co.uk

Prospects: While many astrologers can earn money giving astrological consultations, working on phone lines and teaching, it is seldom a major source of income. Only a minority manage to work as full time astrologers and other work or income usually has to be considered alongside astrology.

Cost of books and reference materials

Taster Course: You do not need additional books or reference materials for this course.

Foundation Course: There are no requirements to buy books for modules 1, 2 and 3a, although a short recommended reading list is given. Some reference materials are required for Module 3b, details of which are given when students enrol on this module. The total cost of essential reference materials is likely to be about £25.

Diploma Course: Assuming you have the essential reference materials required for Module 3b of the Foundation Course, the total cost of books and reference materials for the Diploma Course is likely to be in the region of £68. The list of essential reference materials is given when students enrol. There is also a recommended reading list.

Hours of study

Taster Course: Each lesson and exercise should not take more than one to two hours and there are six lessons and exercises.

Foundation Course: The estimated time for completing all three modules is twelve to eighteen months, or four to six months per module. Each lesson and exercise can take approximately two to eight hours to complete. Some lessons and exercises may not take very long at all while others may take longer, especially those involving a birth chart analysis.

Diploma Course: To study all six of the diploma modules will take approximately six months per module or up to three years in total. It is possible to do the Diploma Course in a much shorter time than this, but it will depend on commitment and time available. The average study time is likely to be three to twelve hours per week.

Tuition periods and extension fees

Taster Course: The tuition period is four months. This means that your tutor will assess the six exercises in the course if you complete them within this time period. If they have not been completed, the tuition will end at that point.

Foundation Course: The tuition period is six months per module (not for the whole Foundation Course). This means that your tutor will mark all the tutor-assessed exercises you have done in this time period. If there are any remaining tutor-assessed exercises when the tuition period runs out, you are given another six months to complete them, but you will be charged £10 per tutor-assessed (t/a) exercise, if you would like to carry on receiving tuition. If a further six months is required, the extension fee per t/a exercise is increased to £15; and £20 per t/a exercise if a final six months is required. There is an additional £10 administration charge per invoice relating to each extension fee period.

Diploma Course: The tuition period is six months per module (not for the whole Diploma Course). This means that your tutor will mark all the tutor-assessed exercises you have done in this period. If there are any remaining tutor-assessed exercises when the tuition period runs out, you are given another six months to complete them, but you will be charged £15 per tutor-assessed (t/a) exercise, if you would like to carry on receiving tuition. If a further six months is required, the extension fee per t/a exercise is increased to £20; and to £25 per t/a exercise if a final six months is required. There is an additional £10 administration charge per invoice relating to each extension fee period.

astrologycollege.com appreciates that there may be genuine exceptional circumstances which prevent you from completing a module within the timescale given. However, only in very rare circumstances will a further tuition period be granted without charging extension fees. If you feel that there are exceptional circumstances, please contact the directors of astrologycollege.com.

Admission Requirements

Taster Course: Other than being able to read and write in English and having an interest in exploring the basics of astrology, there are no admission requirements.

Foundation Course: You should have basic literacy and numeracy skills. If English is not your mother tongue, you must be able to write in English reasonably well. Verbal communication skills are also very useful to an astrologer, but if you have disabilities affecting speech, the writing medium can always be used instead. While it may take a little while to discover what astrology has to offer, no formal qualifications are required. You only need a standard educational background along with a willingness to explore different ways of looking at yourself and the world using the language of astrology.

Diploma Course: The requirements are similar to those of the Foundation Course. If English is not your mother tongue, you must be able to write in English reasonably well. If you have passed the Certificate Exam of astrologycollege.com or equivalent with another school approved by astrologycollege.com, you will automatically be entitled to enrol on the Diploma Course. If you have done the Foundation Course with astrologycollege.com, but not passed the Certificate Exam, you may still be able to study for the Diploma Course after consultation between the Directors and your tutor. If you have learnt astrology elsewhere, you will be asked questions about your previous studies. The questions will be sent to you with the application form and the answers will be assessed by the college. If accepted onto the Diploma Course, your tutor has the right to ask you to transfer onto the relevant modules of the Foundation course if s/he thinks that you do not have the requisite skills to carry on.

To enrol

If the correct enrolment form is not enclosed with the prospectus, if you have received it by post, please contact the college if you require one. To enrol on one of our courses, fill in the form and send it along with the payment to astrologycollege.com, P.O. Box 91, Leominster, HR6 6AQ, UK. The procedure is slightly different if you are paying by PayPal online (www.astrologycollege.com) – see Taster Course, or Foundation Course or Diploma Course page. The enrolment form will be filled in by the administration section after emailing you with some questions.

How to pay: You can pay by PayPal online (see last paragraph). You can choose other methods of payment. All course fees are payable in advance in £ (pounds) sterling upon receipt of your enrolment form. astrologycollege.com can accept payment by postal order or cheque, International Money Order, and also by the following credit/debit cards: MasterCard; Visa Credit; Debit Master Card; Visa Delta; Maestro; Solo; JCB, Visa Purchasing and American Express. Please make cheques payable in sterling to 'astrologycollege.com Ltd.' For your own protection, you should keep records of cheque stubs or counterfoils as your record of payment, keeping a copy of the enrolment form, if you have received one, and the address details of astrologycollege.com. You should not pay in cash. A receipt will be issued when your payment has been received.

Despatch of course material: When you enrol, astrologycollege.com will despatch the course material to you within ten working days. If you have not received it within two weeks, please alert the college as soon as possible. (Please note, for some overseas destinations material may take longer).

Refunds: If you have enrolled on a module, or modules, and you notify astrologycollege.com in writing within eight days of receipt of the course material that you do not want to do the course, you have the right to ask for a refund once you have returned the course material in good condition. Otherwise, unless the circumstances are very exceptional, you will not get a refund. Failure to do course work does not entitle you to a refund. If you think your circumstances are very exceptional, you should contact astrologycollege.com putting forward your case in writing. If a refund is granted, deductions are likely to be made for course material and administration costs.

Privacy Statement: astrologycollege.com is dedicated to keeping your information confidential. We retain only the data necessary to offer you a good standard of service and this data is used only in accordance with our entry in the Data Protection Register. We endeavour to maintain the accuracy of this information. Data is not kept for any longer than necessary. We do not rent or sell our data to third parties.

Individuals can check the information held by the college by emailing admin@astrologycollege.com. astrologycollege.com has made every provision to protect your information, and when it is submitted via the website, it is protected both on-line and off-line. If it is necessary to transfer information to countries outside the European Union, this will not be done without adequate precautions.

Time, Date and Place: If you make a decision to study astrology, the first thing you might like to do is to take a note of the time, date and place of where you are now before filling the enrolment form in. Later on you may want to draw up a chart for the moment you decided to explore astrology and were introduced to looking at the world in a different way.

Members of astrologycollege.com

Sandra Butler, Cert.Ed., DFAstroIS, Hon. Dip.astrol.c., MAPAI, Sandra qualified as a teacher in 1975, specialising in primary education. She taught in primary schools in Kent and Dorset from 1976 until 1987. In 1985, she passed the Diploma of the Faculty of Astrological Studies and was appointed a correspondence course tutor by the Faculty in 1989, a position she retained until 2002. As well as tutoring on the correspondence courses, she regularly taught exam revision classes in birth chart interpretation, at both Certificate and Diploma levels, in London over many years. She also contributed to Diploma level course material. In December 2000, Sandra was appointed to run the Students' Support Service for the Faculty, which she did until after the examinations in May/June 2001. From 1985 until 1987 Sandra taught beginners' and advanced astrology to L.E.A. Adult Education classes throughout Dorset and later in Shrewsbury from 1996/7. She ran informal astrology home study groups from 1985 to 1988 and 1995 to 1999. She has also given talks on astrology to W.I. and similar groups in Dorset and Shropshire from 1985 up until the present day, and in 1997 she appeared on Shropshire Radio to discuss astrology. She continues to teach private astrology classes locally, and to attend to the astrological consultancy practice that she set up in 1985. Sandra is one of astrologycollege.com's tutors and deals with the email enquiries.

Jean Elliott, DFAstroIS, RCAstrol, Hon.Dip.astrol.c., FAPAI, Jean has been working as an astrologer since 1984 when she gained the Diploma of the Faculty of Astrological Studies. She completed the Faculty's Counselling within Astrology course in 1992. Jean worked on the Astrological Association Council in the mid – late 1980s. She helped run the Rainbow Circle Astrology Camps for many years and was an astrology tutor for Lewisham Adult Education in the late 1980s and early 1990s. She worked as a correspondence course tutor with the Faculty of Astrological Studies from 1999 to 2001 and helped the Faculty with the development of new course material in 2001 and 2002. She is now an active participant in the Wheel of Astrologers, a loosely associated group of astrologers whose aims are to work at festivals and organise outdoor astrology gatherings (www.wheelofastrologers.co.uk). Jean is one of astrologycollege.com's directors, is responsible for course development and is Company Secretary and Treasurer.

Teresa Moorey, DFAstroIS, Hon.Dip.astrol.c., gained the Diploma of the Faculty of Astrological Studies in 1989 along with the Gold Medal and Veritas awards. She was appointed a Faculty correspondence tutor in 1995 and continued as such until 2002. She began practising as an astrologer before gaining her diploma using astrology to support people in becoming more self aware, also to keep life events in perspective and understand their place in the scheme of things. She is a trained counsellor and hypnotherapist, working in private practice for 17 years. A professional writer, she has written over 30 books on astrology and aspects of the occult. She is the astrologer for Mizz magazine.

Elizabeth Paige, BA (Hons), DFAstroIS, MAPAI, Following her graduation, Elizabeth gained a Post Graduate Certificate in Education, before spending four years teaching Humanities at secondary level. She started studying astrology with the Faculty of Astrological Studies in 1979, gaining her diploma, D.F.Astrol.S., in 1983. She has worked as a consultant astrologer, and before becoming a correspondence course tutor, she taught an evening class for two years. She went on to become a correspondence course tutor for the Faculty of Astrological Studies in 1986, a post she held until 2002. Elizabeth is one of astrologycollege.com's tutors.

Angela Radcliffe, BSc (Hons), DFAstroIS, Angela has given talks and run workshops in astrology since 1987. She received the Faculty of Astrological Studies' McArthur award in 1990, gaining her Diploma in 1991. She taught astrology evening classes in Swansea for two years, prior to her appointment as a correspondence tutor with the Faculty of Astrological Studies in 1993, a post she retained until 2002. In addition to her tutorial duties, she assisted in the presentation of Faculty course material. In 1994, she took over the running of the Student Support Service, addressing student concerns and referring them on for additional help where necessary. Following her graduation in psychology in 1996, she embarked on training and assessment in further education. She has also trained and practiced as a couples' counsellor. Angela was responsible for astrologycollege.com's administration until she retired in 2006.

Janette Russell, DFAstroIS, Hon.Dip.astrol.c., Janette started studying with the Faculty in 1978, gaining her Diploma in 1988. She began working for the Faculty as a correspondence tutor in 1990 and continued as such until 2002. She is a former Council secretary for the Faculty, and looked after the diploma membership renewals. Janette is also a Registered General Nurse. As well as working as an astrological consultant, Janette has given talks and offered private tuition to students. She is qualified in Reiki, Regression therapy, and hypnotherapy. Janette is one of astrologycollege.com's directors and tutors.

Christine Tate, BSc (Hons), DFAstroIS, Hon.Dip.astrol.c., Christine received the Gold Medal when she obtained her Diploma from the Faculty of Astrological Studies in 1983 and thereafter joined their correspondence course tutorial team continuing as a tutor until 2002. From 1984-2000 she held the post of Faculty Director of Studies responsible for the ongoing monitoring, revision and updating of their course material. In the year 2000 she was a co-founder of the London School of Astrology and was responsible for their administration until November 2002.

Her background in astrology is extensive; she has taught local authority astrology classes; during her time with the Faculty she held various roles including Librarian, Examination Secretary, and organiser of their successful Summer Schools and she was a past Chairman of the Advisory Panel for Astrological Education – a body which monitors the standards of astrological teaching.

She was one of the first people in this country to be awarded an RSA Certificate for "Counselling skills in the Development of Learning" and has a B.Sc.(Hons.) in psychology. As a healer member of the National Federation of Spiritual Healers, she has found the blending of astrological skills and counselling techniques invaluable in therapeutic work. Christine has also trained as a past life regressionist and is particularly interested in karmic astrology.

Meeting other students and astrologers

Studying astrology using distance-learning methods is a very good way to learn, but studying in classes, attending seminars or residential weekends and conferences is encouraged. Having contact with other students and astrologers provides a stimulating way of learning and is particularly helpful if you are studying on your own most of the time.

For those in the London area who would like a more immediate way to learn astrology, the London School of Astrology runs evening classes for beginners, intermediate and advanced students. Additionally, the LSA runs Saturday seminars and residential schools for those seeking to supplement their astrological knowledge. The address details of the LSA are:
